ohn O'Conner vs. City of Memphis-Opinion Whether the Legislature can withhold the axing power as against debts previously conracted, is a great question not now before us. I may be that the creditor cannot collect his debt, but, to use the language of Judge Clifford in the Beckwith case, "he ought always to be able, by some proper action, to reduce his contract to judgment."

The creditor should have this right in the present case, both for the purpose of reaching his share of the assets which may be realized by the presiver and to have the benefit ized by the receiver, and to have the benefit of future legislation. The courts can never presume the permanent repudiation by the State of an honest demand. This Court has decided that the holder of a valid claim on the treasury of the State, is entitled to com-pel the Comptroller to issue him a warrant herefor, although it cannot be paid without therefor, although it cannot be paid without an appropriation for the purpose by the Leg-islature, and no such appropriation has been

We express no opinion on any point not before us. All we undertake at present to decide is that the Taxing-District of Shelby county is so far the successor of the late cor-poration of the city of Memphis, or the same corporation under a new name, that a suit nding against the old corporation may be vived against the new, and prosecuted to

In this connection the Chattanonga Times offers the annexed sensible suggestions:
"When the act authorizing the settlement of Memphis's debt at one-third the full value was passed by the Legislature, the Times pointed out this very complication as liable to see from decisions of the courts. The o arise from decisions of the courts. The tate can no more cover up the estate of a efaulting city, than it can aid in concealing Horseshoe, Every dollar's worth of taxable property within the corporate limits of Memphis is legally bound for the corporate debt. The city is valued at some $18,000,000 for taxation. The debt is about a third of that amount. Whatever hardship flows from such a construction of the law, it is the one rts have acted on for a hundred years, and will continue to act on it, as rules cannot be made for exceptional cases without uncettling the whole machinery of justice. This is the cold legal aspect of the case. It would seem, however, that for the

There are equities that may not be possible of consideration in a court of law that ist finally have weight in the tribunals of lic opinion and commerce. A good many of the creditors were parties to outraged rands in creating the debt. The city I uffered from epidemics to the verge of ruin nore than once since the debt was incurred. Its property and population shrank seriously from 1870 to 1880. The debt cannot be paid without permanently ruining one of the toest natural trade-centers of the country; and, law or no law, a debt thus held against such There are considerations of life, of

White's wife entered the jail with her two children, aged six and three years, the former a boy, the very picture of the doomed man, the latter a very likely girl. The presence of his children seemed to affect White very much. The children were kissed by him through the prison bars, and, turning around to a Mr. Ferguson, he said: "This is hard. I don't blame any one. I was put here to die. It is terrible for a man to be hung until dead by the neck." The Jailer opened the cell door, and White came out. Features of the Coming Bankers' Convention. NEW YORK, June 9 .- The executive cour cil of the American Bankers' association today made the preliminary arrangements for the Bankers' Convention, which is to be held pected to be present. It has been decided to give more time than usual for short extempore speeches and for the social features of the occasions. Among the subjects for discussion are; "The Currency of the Future;" "Causes half price. are; "The Currency of the Future;" "Causes and Prevention of Panics;" "The Industrial and Frevention of Fanks; The Industrial Progress of the South and West; "The Perils and Safeguards in the Financial Situation;" "The Decrease in the Rate of Interest," and "The Progress of Through Traffic Between the West and Europe."

A Border Murder and Pursuit. GRAND ISLAND, NER., June 9.—Yesterday afternoon, Lou Paxton, nineteen years of age, living about ten miles north of St. Paul, Nebraska, went to a field to do some plowing. Not returning to supper, his brother mounted a horse, and going to the field, found Lou's remains, with a rope tied around the neck and fastened to the end of a plow, to which he dragged. There was a bullet hole just back of the right ear; the skull was broken, apparenty with an iron rod, and his horses and wagon were gone,

This morning at break of day, Conrad Wentworth, the famous Indian scout, familiarly known as "Buckshot," or the "Whirlwind of the Prairies," "Whirlwind of the Prairies," ries," was galloping on the dewy trail. In tense excitement prevails, and squads horsemen are joining in the chase.

Victims of a Boiler Explosio New Orleans, June 9.—The following ersons, who were scalded by the explosion the boiler of the steamboat Hanna day, have died: John Logan, Henry Davis, Henry Wallace, George Johnson and Jack Bates. After the explosion John Britton umped overboard and was drowned. George fibbs, John Wallis, Stephen Thomas and Paul Miner are not expected to recover. All the above-named are colored. It is generally inderstood that the boats were racing. the time of the explosion the Hanna and St. John were side by side, rounding Fourteen-Mile Point. The Local Inspectors are in-Mrs. Hayes's Temperance Testimonial.

CHICAGO, June 9.—The huge album of six volumes, containing 650 pages each, presented to Mrs. R. B. Hayes by the women of Illinois, is just out of the bindery, and will soon be ready for delivery. It is beautifully designed and illustrated. Its inscription runs: "From the ladies of Illinois, who have admired the courage Mrs. Hayes has dis-played in the administration of the hospitalies of the Executive Mansion. God grant that the influence of this signal and benign Brower, of Poughkeepsie, the driver of Billy K., was thrown from his sulky in the follows age in the life of this great Repub-

Congressional Vacancy Filled. CHARLESTOWN, S. C., June 9 .- The special Sr. Louis, June 9.—The weather was election to-day in the Second Congressional district to fill the vacancy caused by the splendid, and the attendance at the races to-day very large, including many ladies and death of Congressman O'Connor, passed off day very large, including an united a number of prominent gentlemen quietly. Samuel Itilable, Democrat, was rarely if ever seen at a race-course, which indicates that racing is attracting unusual abstaining from voting, holding that Mackey, indicates that racing is attracting unusual abstaining from voting, holding that Mackey, interest in this city, and being more popular O'Connor's opponent, was really elected last fall, and that, therefore, no vacancy ex-
